Learning communities face many challenges and DRIVE exists to help support you in overcoming these challenges. Perhaps you have enlisted another organization to assess your needs or come up with your own analysis without using ASSC's survey. If you have uncovered a stumbling block and are not sure of the best way to proceed DRIVE is here to help you find a solution.

All DRIVE workshops are highly interactive and engaging. Because the Power of Our© is based on scientific research that reveals the true nature of human behavior and intrinsic motivation they have a higher rate of success than many other cookie-cutter programs. For me, the DRIVE professional development was inspirational. I gained a plethora of knowledge that I was able to immediately take back into my classrooms and make a difference. My students have been much more involved in their success and feel empowered to speak out and support one another. My students are exuding more confidence in themselves and being reflective along side of me. They want to inform me often how they can improve and are developing a growth mindset not just in their academic lives. Working with DRIVE helped me mend some of the flaws in my behavior management system that I did not even realize were there. I truly appreciate the knowledge I gained from the professional development and would love to be able to learn even more.
